

BEST EARLY INTERVENTION PROGRAMME (EIP)

ABC (AUTISM BEHAVIORAL CENTRE)

Timely Intervention For A Child's Individualized Needs

Early intervention is defined as any intensive intervention beginning before the age of 5 years old. Children with autism and developmental delays tend to learn differently, but they also require evidence-based intervention for the best outcomes. Therefore, appropriate intervention and at the earliest possible time also play integral roles in providing the support an autistic child needs to thrive, enter mainstream schooling, and lead his best life. In this sense, ABC (Autism Behavioral Centre), our nation's largest ABA (Applied Behaviour Analysis) 1:1 center, is at the very forefront of providing international standards of early intervention through the implementation of PaTTAN (Pennsylvania Training and Technical Assistance Network) and direct supervision from a Board Certified Behavior Analyst (BCBA), Ms. Dita Chapman. The highly conducive and well-resourced centre features 40 independent therapy rooms that are intentionally set up for managing all the possible perplexities and diversions related to developmental delays. In addition, ABC's IEP (Individualised Education Plan) has proven to be indispensable in keeping track of each child's progress and helping them improve in their milestones. ABC is able to support children as young as 16 months old, presenting with any form of developmental delays. Ask any family whose child attends ABC, and they'll readily agree that the award-winning centre provides the intervention their precious one deserves for a more fulfilling life.
